DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings filed February 24, 2004 are acceptable.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding claim 1, in a process for producing a cold-field cathode by patterning an aligned carbon nanotube film on a surface of a substrate, the prior art does not teach or make obvious the concept of bonding a surface of the aligned carbon nanotube film to a surface of the conductive binder and then transferring the aligned carbon nanotube film from the basic first substrate to the conductive binder by stripping the first basic substrate from the conductive binder and the second substrate, leaving those portions of the aligned carbon nanotube film behind which have been bonded to the patterned conductive binder in the manner claimed by the applicant.

Regarding claim 2, in a process for producing a cold-field cathode by patterning an aligned carbon nanotube film on a surface of a substrate, the prior art does not teach or make obvious the concept of bonding a surface of the aligned carbon nanotube film to a surface of a flexible substrate having a reversibly adhesive surface and then transferring the aligned carbon nanotube film from the basic substrate to the flexible substrate by stripping the basic substrate, leaving those portions of the aligned carbon nanotube film behind on the flexible substrate which have been bonded to the surface of the flexible substrate and bonding a surface of the conductive binder to a surface of the aligned carbon nanotube film that has been transferred to the flexible substrate and then transferring the aligned carbon nanotube film from the flexible substrate to the conductive binder by stripping the flexible substrate, leaving those portions of the aligned carbon nanotube film behind on the substrate for the electrode which have been bonded to the conductive binder in the manner claimed by the applicant.

Regarding claim 3, in a process for producing a cold-field cathode by patterning an aligned carbon nanotube film on a surface of a substrate, the prior art does not teach or make obvious the concept of bonding a surface of the aligned carbon nanotube film to a surface of a first flexible substrate having a reversibly adhesive surface and then transferring the aligned carbon nanotube film from the basic substrate to the flexible substrate by stripping the basic substrate, leaving those portions of the aligned carbon nanotube film behind on the flexible substrate which have been bonded to the surface of the flexible substrate, bonding a surface of the conductive binder to a surface of the aligned carbon nanotube film that has been transferred to the second flexible substrate and then transferring the aligned carbon nanotube film to the conductive binder by stripping the flexible substrate, leaving those portions of the aligned carbon nanotube film behind on the second flexible substrate which have been bonded to the conductive binder in the manner claimed by the applicant.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
